

Dear bsmart member,

Celebrating You

This month, we turn the spotlight where it truly belongs - on you, our bsmart members. You've been at the centre of countless everyday moments, from the weekly grocery shop to special celebrations, and it's those stories that make our community what it is.

As the seasons shift, we're taking the opportunity to share more of what matters most: the value you bring, the ways you save, and the pride we share in being part of this community together.

Member Spotlight: Meet Herman

"My bsmart membership comes a very long way – first my parents had bsmart membership for years. Then we as kids also got our own bsmart membership. What an awesome way to save money over all the years. It is so convenient – even when my kids were students, we got them their own bsmart cards to use while they been at varsity. It cannot get better than this."

BIG THANKS TO BSMART FOR ALL OUR SAVINGS OVER THE YEARS - AWESOME SERVICE AND AWESOME SAVINGS"

Herman's story reminds us that smart spending isn't just about saving money: it's about creating more room for the moments that matter.

Last month, we asked a simple true or false question: If you fail to disclose material information such as previous claims, the insurer may cancel your policy.

A big congratulations to Mr Adams for getting it right!

The correct answer is 'True' because insurers rely on accurate information, like your previous claims, to underwrite your risk correctly and set a fair premium.

Mr Adams walked away with a R500 Takealot voucher!

Why does your scheme cover some medicines, but not others?

It all comes down to a formulary: a list of approved medicines that your medical aid plan will cover. If your prescription isn't on that list, you could end up paying extra, or you may be asked to switch to an alternative.

That's where MedXpert can help.

As a FREE service to all bsmart members who register, MedXpert explains your options, helps you understand the rules, and guides you in avoiding unnecessary costs.

Take charge of your health cover with guidance from MedXpert.
